ABSTRACT

This report presents data on enrollments, levies, budgets, costs per pupil, and teacher salaries in 82 of Montana's 98 small rural (Class "C") school districts for fiscal year 1993-94. The average enrollment was 143 students in elementary schools and 68 students in high schools. Costs per pupil to the general fund budget without special education averaged $4,233 in elementary schools, $7,803 in high schools, and $6,762 in K-12 districts. The pupil/teacher ratio averaged 13.5 in elementary schools, 8.4 in high schools, and 9.1 in K-12 districts. Teacher salaries averaged $23,380. Data tables provide the following information for each school district: (1) enrollment; (2) taxable valuation (total and per pupil); (3) guaranteed tax base per mill; (4) general fund budgets without special education (total and per pupil); (5) over base budget in dollars; (6) over base levy mills required; (7) general fund reserve as percent of general fund; (8) special education budget and FTE personnel; (9) transportation budget cost per pupil; (10) teacher salaries as percent of total general fund; (11) teacher/pupil ratio; (12) teacher salary schedules; and (13) wages and salaries for instructional aides, noncertified staff, and extra duty. INTRODUCTION

Here is the 1993-94 Class "C" Survey. Though it is the thirteenth annual one, some categories are changed, that is because the legislature again changed the method of funding schools. There are no permissive and voted levies. These have been done away with. There is instead an "over base levy" for some schools.

Eighty-two of the 98 Class C school districts participated this year, so there is a return rate for the survey of almost 84 percent. We appreciate those of you who took the time to return the survey. With this data, particularly as it is collected year after year, useful comparisons can be made not just of schools to schools but of what is happening in the world of Class C schools from year to year.

For instance by just making some quick comparisons in some categories of last year's survey to this one we can see that Class C schools actually had more taxable valuation per student this year than last, yet in every category they were spending less per student this year than last. They were also spending less on pupil transportation per student, and the average teacher salary was actually down by $240 from last year. Clearly this year's survey represents a frugal approach to education.

Last year the survey showed only eight elementary and secondary Class C districts had combined into K-12 districts. This year the survey shows that 22 have. Those in favor of fewer school districts should be happy to see the figures of school districts going down, even though the only savings is in one set of paper work. In fact according to the Office of Public Instruction's Directory of Montana Schools for this year there are now 31 K-12 School Districts, 128 Combined Districts (those with joint boards) and only 190 Independent Districts for a total of 349 operating Administrative Districts. That's almost 200 fewer that what Montana used to cite even five years ago.

It is the hope of the editor that some of our rural education students can do some longitudinal analyses of school districts over the thirteen year span of the Class C surveys. Because it will be through this kind of indepth study that we will be able to get some clear sense of what is happening in the funding and the financial life of the Class C schools.

This survey is compiled and published as a service to the small schools of Montana by the Rural Education Center of Western Montana College of The University of Montana.
